

Alan Dershowitz: We must not be embarrassed to promote Western values of tolerance, of democracy, of free speech, of dissent, of equality. There are a bunch of bullies today on college campuses and because some of them represent disenfranchised groups people of color, gays, other people who we have sympathy for their background and their cause. We cannot allow them and others, others of different backgrounds to deny us the basic Western values of free speech and we cannot allow the bullies to threaten to close down universities, that's what bullies did in Germany in the 1930s and that's what Stalinists did. We have to be unembarrassed about promoting Western values of tolerance and dissent more professors have to do it more students have to do it. We have to get support of alumni, support of donors, support of board members, support of the media, support of government officials, in every way without in any way constraining freedom of speech we must be able to express our point of view on college campuses.

Alan Dershowitz: Fight back, fight against intolerance, never let the censor get the last word, never allow those who believe they have the truth on their side to suppress other truths.

Alan Dershowitz: Truth is a never-ending quest and every idea must be expressed on a campus, every view must be challenged and the only way to compete effectively in the marketplace of ideas is to allow every stall, every stall in that marketplace to be open and to stand and fall on the merits or demerits of their views but no view should be censored, no view should be suppressed. And views should not in any way be immune from challenge we have to be able to challenge, challenge is the essence of the open marketplace of ideas. So my message to students is fight back against this form of repression, don't be embarrassed, don't be guilty by people who say intersectionality, if you want to be on the right side of history you have to join us in our campaign against free speech and against tolerance and against dissent, that's a phony choice, and fight back within the principles Western democracy and Western values.
